

Spintronics – from metals to semiconductors

Hideo Ohno

RIEC, Tohoku University, Japan

Spintronics is an area of electronics that utilizes both charge and spin of electrons. Here, I will discuss the present trends in this field, which include:

- nonvolatile memories as an example of metal-semiconductor hybrid applications;
- ferromagnetic semiconductor physics and potential applications, and
- the coherent quantum manipulation of spins in semiconductors.